

The Roaches

Narrator – Neil Patrick Harris

Everyone at the Bridge Street Hostel agreed the roaches were a problem. But most of the volunteers felt it was something they could live with. That is, until they learned to talk.

No one was quite sure how the roaches learned language. There were a lot of wild theories, from aliens to pesticides to black magic. That, however, was not the real issue.

You see, the Bridge Street Hostel was run by a collective. All it took to become a voting member was two hours of volunteer work a week. The newly intelligent roaches had no problem cleaning up garbage, so they easily fulfilled that minimum. And, since no one had ever anticipated this issue, there was nothing in the bylaws that specified members had to be human beings.

At the very next collective meeting, the roaches outnumbered the humans by several thousand to one.

Thus it was easy for them to force a vote of non-confidence in the board of directors and replace them with roach candidates.

And that is how the Bridge Street Hostel became, literally, a roach motel.

---

Going Green

Narrator – Michael Keaton

“I think you misunderstand the concept of going green,” Dad said, as he gazed at the spray painted Prius.

---

Unwell

Narrator – Kevin Kline

A middle-aged man in the Middle Ages; “Something plagues me,” he said as the pustule burst.

---

Attraction

Narrator – Pamela Anderson

Am I attracted to you?

Yes

With a force directly proportional

To the product of our masses

And inversely proportional

To the square of the distance between us

When you storm away you only reduce the attraction.

---

Pointed

Narrator – Mila Kunis

Crom the dwarf and Mitayai the elf were best of friends, until Crom made a pointed comment about Mitayai's ears.

---

Carousel

Narrator – Mickey Rourke

His rides were run down. Even the carousel was a hard sell. The painted horses no long galloped, they sauntered, awaiting the glue factory.

---

Dated

Narrator – Chris Harmer

Dated –27 times before I proposed,
Dated –1920s, the vintage wedding dress you wore,
Dated –1973, song we danced to,
Dated – 1/2 the jokes your father told,
Dated - 6/7/12, our divorce...

---

Nano Nano Nano

Narrator - Jonah Hill

Creating nanobots to consume all of Earth's garbage seemed like a good idea. That is until they decided dirty clothing, even slightly dirty, was garbage, leaving a lot of people cold and embarrassed.

---